Chamber approves BRZ plans

by Janice Harrington

The Chamber of Commerce has given approval in principle for the go ahead of plans for a business revitalization zone in Didsbury.

At their regular meeting last week, Chamber members voted to allow members of the Downtown Revitalization committee to continue their work on the BRZ plan which hopes to boost the viability and attraction of the downtown area in town.

Jim Turner, spokesperson for the DRC, a sub-committee of the town's Tourism and Economic Development Board, said he was pleased with the chance to continue the plans for the promotion of Didsbury's downtown core.

"We think this plan is important in helping to keep the downtown alive and to helping all the businesses in Didsbury," he said.

Under the plans, the DRC will now approach town council and businesses in the downtown about creating a by-law to use business tax funds to establish the BRZ. A core area of businesses will be established as the initial stage of the BRZ concept, 70 percent of the businesses in the area must agree to the by-law to allow the plan to proceed.

"We will also try to bring it to those businesses first so the people effected by it will have input into what we are going to do," said Turner. "And not just the businesses in the core area will be involved. Once we get approval, anyone who would like to be involved can be."

Turner said he does anticipate some opposition to the plan from business owners because of the extra tax

Neighbor to neighbor

Midway Community School grade 2 student Ben Beargen got a community treat last week when Eleanor Brown gave up some spare time to read with him at the school. Brown was one of 37 volunteers who drove in to spend time with the students. Midway Curriculum Coordinator Ronda Zimmerman said the program was set up to continue the tradition of community involvement in the school and to foster a sense of the importance of reading in the students. Zimmerman said because the program was so successful, they hope to do it again.

dollars they would be charged under the program. Fund-raising for the BRZ for planned physical and promotional development could come through extra charges on the business licence or through business taxation. This anticipated opposition is a large part of the reasoning behind the geography of the core area which the DRC has drawn up.

"In a lot of towns, the formation of the BRZ is the toughest part," said Chamber of Commerce president

Cary Hatcher. "We need 70 percent approval. If we make the area too large, it would make that a bear of a task."

With the approval of the BRZ plan, the Chamber also gave approval to the proposed reapplication to the Main Street program which uses government funds to beef up the appearance of the downtown area. The town hopes to make another application to the program this spring.

"With this whole plan, we hope to highlight areas that

Expansion planned for next year's Winter Festival

by Janice Harrington

Didsbury's new Recreation Director is hoping to put plans into place to expand on the Didsbury Winter Festival after the success of this year's version.

Ken Luck said he hopes to see more events for the continually growing February family event.

"I'd kind of like to see more outdoor events like ice sculpting and that kind of thing," he said. "We were a bit rushed putting things together this year because of when I arrived, so I really hope we can get together with our community partners and come up with something really fun for kids and their families."

Luck said this year's version of the Winter Festival was a big success even with fewer events.

"We had minor hockey play all morning Saturday but unfortunately some afternoon games were cancelled because some visiting teams were unable to make the trip," he said. "But we had about 25 to 30 kids out for Hamlet the Clown."

Luck said the dusting of snow Didsbury suffered Friday night also helped add to the success of the weekend.

"Because of the snow we were able to have the dog sled and horse drawn sleigh rides and they provided rides most of Saturday afternoon."

John Bates supplied the dog sled rides and Howard Krebs handled the sleigh rides.

Luck said the senior Ramblers game on Saturday night ended up with a huge turnout, around 350 fans, for their win against the Olds Elks.

"I think that is pretty good compared to their regular season turnout."

Around 300 also showed up for the Scout Committee cabaret which featured T.C. and Company.

Of course, the biggest event by far over the weekend was the opening of the new indoor swimming pool which Luck said saw 500 to 600 people drop by for a free dip.

"That was probably the biggest thing about the Festival," he said. "That was what everyone had their minds on."

The only disappointment of the festival was the cancellation of the Didsbury High School lip sync contest which had been planned for the Friday night.

"I guess a number of the students were really busy with lots of other things going on this weekend," Luck said. "We hope that we can get it going again for next year."

"All in all, I'd say thing went really well. The weather conditions were quite nice," he added. "I think Shawna (Krebs, Recreation secretary also responsible for organizing the festival) and I would have liked to do a little more, but perhaps next year."

Fair to help make weddings special

by Janice Harrington

There's nothing quite like the planning of that special wedding day and the Didsbury Welcome Wagon is set to help make the planning a little easier.

The Welcome Wagon committee is once again offering the Bridal Fair in Didsbury free for brides, grooms and their guests.

Planned for March 6, 1993, the fair will feature displays and advice from businesses and services specializing in wedding day needs.

Jewelry, gown fashions, hair design, photography, printing, catering, music and honeymoon planning will all be part of the fun with the special feature of the event being a fashion show put on by Ethos of Calgary, a business specializing in original bridal fashions.

A little bit of help with the honeymoon may also be part of the day for lucky door prize winners. Prizes, compliments of INTRA Don's World Travel include the grand prize of an overnight package at Banff's Ptarmigan Inn and other overnight stays at Calgary's Crossroads Hotel and Banff's Douglas Fir Resort.

The Bridal Fair, an annual event put on by the Welcome Wagon, is recommended for people planning a wedding 3 months or more in the future. It will be held at the Didsbury Memorial Complex from 1 to 4 pm.

Arlene Herrick, Library volunteer and craft co-ordinator says, "The idea behind the group was to encourage women to get together to exchange craft ideas and enjoy some fellowship." Herrick added, "All the crafts are inexpensive, with most of the materials being provided by members in a co-op fashion, and all the crafts are simple. In other words you don't need any special skills to join."

The club is free to join and has 6 weeks left to run. The schedule is Tuesdays from 1:00 to 2:30 p.m. at the library boardroom:

Education and business join for student safety

by Janice Harrington

An official partnership has been made between county schools and industry in an effort to reduce work place accidents.

Mountain View County Board's Assistant Superintendent Jim Gibbons said the program to pair up industry and the school system was set up by Alberta Occupational Health and Safety after reviews of workplace accidents showed a 35 percent ratio of those accidents involving workers between the ages of 18 and 24.

"The idea is overall to make students more aware of safety hazards with equipment and discuss possible careers because it appears that today the students aren't being prepared well enough for job hazards in the school system," he said.

Under the program, each school in the county has been teamed up with a business which will use their resources to better educate students. In return, Gibbons said, the industry gets better prepared workers who lose less time to on-job accidents.

"Part of a partnership is that there has to be something in it for both partners," he said. "That's what I like about this program."

School and industry match ups for this program are: Hugh Sutherland with Shell Canada, Cremona School with Mobil Oil, Olds High School with Banner Gelatin, Didsbury High School with Amerada Hess Resources, Sundre High School with Amoco and Westglan School with Home Oil.

Some of the programs that the new pairings hope to bring to the students include professional development training for Industrial Education teachers and safety certificates for students to earn through the program which can count towards employment. Gibbons said there are a number of possibilities involved in the program.

"Our students will benefit because they get a better understanding of modern work facilities," he said. "They have equipment that we don't have the resources to keep up with. I think it is just a good idea to get them together. They can help the schools out and in turn get better employees. I can see this expanding into all sorts of areas."

Gibbons also sees the program helping students out who don't take jobs in those particular industries.

"Just a better understanding of how to be careful around machinery and equipment will have a spill-off effect," he said. "The students may be able to use that knowledge in everyday life and benefit in a number of ways."

Community involvement

Schools and industry got together formerly last week with the official kick off of the adopt-a-school program. Through this program, business and schools work together to help better educate students about industry safety issues.

Local scouts to attend CJ '93

The 8th Scouts Canada Jamboree will be held in Kananaskis country from July 10 to 17th, 1993.

Scout troops from a number of countries outside of Canada are expected to be in attendance. In addition to on-site activities, there are a lot of exciting overnight camps, hikes and tours on the agenda.

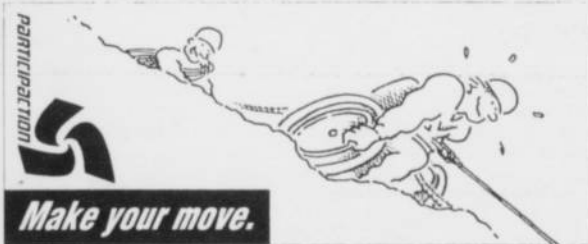

Each troop is to be twinned with an out-of-province troop. To date, Didsbury has not been informed with whom they have been twinned. They are hoping to have this troop visit with them in Didsbury before returning home.

The Scouts have been busy individually and as a troop raising funds to attend the Jamboree. They have held honey sales, a chili supper, sold Halloween insurance, held Santa's visits, a sale of homemade poppycock, bottle drives and a car wash. Another car wash is slated for later and the annual spring bottle drive will be held in April, dates to be announced later. The Didsbury Lions Club, sponsors of the Scouting group, donated funds to send one Scout to Jamboree.

Members of the troop attending Jamboree are Patrol Leader Blair Steven, Almee Mousseau, Ryan Heath, Patrol Leader Gerry Samoisette, Jonathon Rose and Shauna Steven. Leaders going to C.J. are Jim Skinner and Brenda Turner.

The group hopes to start a Venturer Company in the fall; youth ages 14 to 18 are eligible to join. If interested, call Jim Skinner at 335-3784.

County volleyballers university leaders

Two former County of Mountain View volleyball players are currently leading the Canada West University volleyball league in blocking. Jill Osborne, formerly of Cremona, and Kris Qually from Olds lead the league and their respective teams are in first place in Canada West.

Osborne has 44 stuff blocks in 43 sets for the University of Alberta Pandas, while Qually has 43 stuffs in 41 sets for the University of Calgary Dinosaurs. Both players are also highly ranked in service aces and hope to lead their teams in the play-offs. The National Championships for women are in Quebec City while the University of Alberta hosts the men's championships March 5, 6 and 7.

OPINIONS/EDITORIAL

A scary situation

by Janice Harrington

No doubts Canadians who watched Sunday's edition of W5 are clutching their purse strings a little tighter this week.

The economic and standard of living comparisons made between Canada and New Zealand were indeed eye opening and the reporters for W5 did a very good job of showing us how far we can slide if changes are not made.

New Zealand, which used to have as high a standard of living as we enjoy in Canada, has basically hit the bottom of the barrel. Social institutions like med-care and unemployment insurance have been cut, and that is just the start of the sacrifices Kiwis have had to make because of the short sightedness of their former government.

What was shown was the stubborn unwillingness of a conservative government to change their policies in light of economic downslides. The parallels between their government and ours are frightening; continued subsidizations of businesses (most notably farming) rather than encouragement of new industry, the continuation of government spending in areas "falling down", continued deficit spending. Do these things sound familiar?

The moral of the New Zealand story is that a land, once highly regarded for its social programs and quality of life, is now almost considered a third world country. It makes people (especially those in government) who think it can never happen to Canada, sit up and take notice.

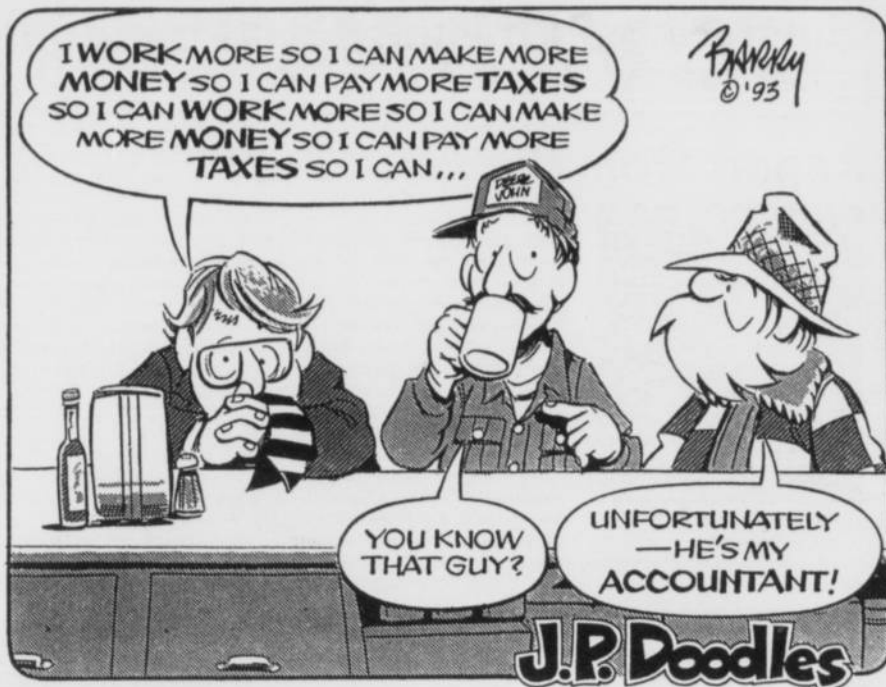

We need to take New Zealand's plight as a warning and make some serious changes in government spending policies. We need to encourage the government to promote diversification for those Saskatchewan farmers crying for continued subsidization in a wheat market no longer viable. We need to demand an end to continued government borrowing. We need to find ways to make our crown corporations profitable in the short term. We need to practise far sighted, conservative economic policies. In short, we need to bite the bullet and make some small sacrifices before we stand to lose some of those social institutions which make Canada the envy of the world.

You just have to look at New Zealand to see what we stand to lose. The ghosts are speaking from half a world away, and we need to take the time to listen or those ghosts may end up as our own.

Quote of the week:

"Whichever way you look, things seem to be going up over the past couple of years and what we want to do is keep that momentum going."

Chamber of Commerce member Jim Turner discussing the reasons behind the formation of the Downtown Revitalization Committee.

Looking for new government

Dear Editor:

Premier Klein has just made the greatest blunder of his political career. Astute politician that he is, he has carefully cultivated the support of conservative rural Alberta, which support won him the premiership. Thinking he has rural Alberta and other small 'c' conservatives in his hip pocket, suddenly he has grown beyond his support base to become a Mulroney lover and a Preston Manning, Reform party backer.

What Ralph really doesn't understand is that we Albertans have nothing personal against his new friend Mulroney -- it's just what he stands for in the governing of this country -- tax and spend, patronage, bloated bureaucracy, cronyism, vote-buying, senate manipulating, corruption, paternalism, people ignoring, and country dividing leadership.

So, Ralph, if that's what you stand for, count me out. Instead of seriously considering voting for you in the next election, I am going to make every effort to find a free enterprise party to join and support with all my energy. It's obvious we need a new approach by an uncontaminated party. Could it be the So-Creds who gave us the best government we ever had.

Nurses speak out on cutbacks

Dear Editor:

Public awareness must be raised to the escalating cuts and erosion occurring to the universality and quality of our Province's Healthcare System.

It is unfortunate that in the present climate of recession and rising unemployment Albertans have been sensitized and weakened into accepting all cutbacks as necessary.

In the past year, most provincial governments have either announced or implemented what appears to be drastic actions to curb health care expenditures. Hospital budgets have been reduced to meagre increases (most are currently bracing for 0 or minus funding for 1994) resulting in bed closures, staff layoffs and a general decline in the quality and accessibility of care.

Consequently, this results in an increased acuity and caseload for community based health services that to date have received little in additional funding.

Though deficit reduction is a key priority, it is important to understand that health care cutbacks are also a result of the Federal Government's declining commitment to health care. The reduction of federal transfer payments which help fund provincial health services is estimated to total $30 billion by 1996 with all federal cash transfers ending around the year 2002.

The Free Trade Agreement is also contributing to cutbacks. In 1987, the Prime Minister proclaimed Canada's social programs as a "sacred trust" and that the Free Trade Agreement exempted medicare, unemployment insurance, family allowances and old age pensions. Once the deal had been signed however, corporations that had spent millions of dollars promoting the FTA began demanding cuts in taxes (as evidenced in the Edmonton Journal article of February 19th - Corporate Tax Bill Drops $73 Million) and in government spending. These cuts target social programs like medicare, and are intended to "level the playing field" with the United States.

What does this mean for Albertans?

In a general sense, it means that health care services today and in the future may not be universal, portable, accessible, comprehensive or publicly administered.

If the Five Principles of the Canada Health Act are salvageable it is up to each of us. Governments must become more accountable in meeting the challenges they are elected to face.

Let it not be said: First they broke legally signed contracts - but I believed it to be necessary so I did nothing. Then they reduced health benefits for seniors - but I am not one of those so I did nothing. Then they closed beds and downsized hospitals - but that was in someone else's community so I did nothing. And then they took jobs away from my coworkers and I did nothing. At last they came for me - and there was no one left to do anything about it.

Report from the legislature

by Roy Brassard, MLA

The success of the province of Alberta can be attributed to many different industries, institutions and people. However, without question, agriculture continues to be the major contributor to the economic and social well-being of this province. Farmers and ranchers continue to help make this province a success despite tremendous pressures and changes experienced by the industry. Traditions exist, particularly for those operations that have continued to run as family farms and ranches through successive generations. The Department of Agriculture would like to honor such family farms and ranches with a special award.

The "Alberta Century Farm and Ranch Award" has been announced which will recognize those families whose homesteads were established 100 years ago or more. A solid bronze plaque will be presented to each awardee and to qualify, the homestead must have been operated by a family member for the 100 consecutive years. The award acknowledges the stability that such family operations have brought to our province over the years.

If you or someone you know qualifies please contact our constituency office for an application form which is self-explanatory. The form should be returned directly to: Information Services Division, AB Agric & Rural Development, 100 A O'Donoghue Building, 7000, 113 Street, Edmonton T6H 5T6, telephone 427-2127. If you prefer, you can send it to our constituency office in Olds and I'll make certain it is forwarded.

The Spring Session is now over and the new electoral boundaries established and the maps are in the process of being drawn up. With all of the changes to Cabinet we had to replace the Deputy Chair of Committees who is really the Assistant Speaker in the Legislature. For the first time in the history of our legislature, all members from all parties participated in an election of the replacement. This is the first of several initiatives of parliamentary reform being implemented by Premier Ralph Klein.

All departments are currently preparing their budget which should be presented during the April Session of the Legislature.

If you need to contact me, or just want to, I can be reached through our constituency office at 556-3132, or my Edmonton office at 427-1812.

LETTERS

Impeachment attempt

Dear Editor:

It's great to see democracy working in Brazil, RE: the impeachment of President Fernando Collor de Mello. If only we could be that fortunate in Canada. In late October (with a petition from the people) Mr. Jim Jordan, Liberal M.P. for Leeds-Grenville, asked the clerk of petitions (Tom Watts) for permission to stand up in our House of Commons and call for Mulroneys impeachment (our British parliamentary system allows us that right), the request was denied. Mr. Charette came up against the same kind of power in Toronto on Nov. 6, 1992; to lay charges against Mulroney under section 507 of the Criminal Code requires three signatures on a legal petition. Mr. Charette presented J.P. Tom Walton with over sixty thousand, J.P. Walton explained to Mr. Charette that he did have the legal right to charge Mulroney, but you can not charge him unless I sign the legal papers, and I'm not signing.

Federal politicians with the help of the justice system have now become so powerful, that they can break the law, and the constitution, without any fear of reprisals. In 1984 we gave the government $65 billion to run this nation since then we have had 33 federal tax increases (not including the G.S.T.). In 1992 they received $125 billion ($60 billion increase), our debt has gone from $190 billion to $450 billion, and we agreed with our politicians when they brought in mandatory testing for athletes, but when the Canadian Institute for Political Integrity (C.I.P.I.) asked them for the same accountability by taking a lie-detector test, so that we can find out where the $30 billion of our missing tax money is going to every year, they want no part of it. I wonder why? We have now become serfs to the people that should be serving us, and the only legal avenue left open is through our civil courts, thanks to Mr. Glen Kealey and C.I.P.I. the process has begun to bring charges of unjust enrichment against Martin Brian Mulroney, who by abuse of power and trust holds (or is being held in trust for him by numerous agents) legal right to properties which one should not in good conscience hold and enjoy.

For more information on these upcoming charges and what you can do to help, send S.A.S.E. to John Welham, R.R. 10, Peterborough, Ont. K9J 6Y2. Sitting on our hands, waiting for the next election to get rid of Mulroney and company, will not stop the corruption or bring justice and democracy back to Canada, as individuals there is not much we can do to change the system, but if we work and stand together we can take back our Country.

MPs column

by Louise Feltham, MP
Report of the Special Committee on Electoral Reform

Reform Party response

RE: Bobbie Sparrow's denunciation of Reform Party policies as "simplistic" and unworkable. Some dictionaries (World Book dictionary) define the word simplistic as "something thoroughly explained and totally uncomplicated." I compliment the MP for Calgary Southwest for recognizing the simplicity and transparency of the Reform Party's policies.

What I do take issue with is Mrs. Sparrow's claim that Reform Party policies "won't work."

Let's look at some of the principles used as the basis for developing Reform Party policies:

1. Don't spend what you don't have--balance government budgets.
2. Cut back the perks and pensions of MPs and Senators.
3. Downsize government--both the number of MPs and the size of the civil service.
4. Toughen prosecution of young offenders.
5. Keep violent criminals behind bars--abolish automatic parole.
6. Deport non-citizens convicted of serious crimes.
7. Let the people decide on capital punishment--hold a binding national referendum.
8. Reform Parliament--loosen party discipline and let MPs represent their constituents first, their party second.
9. Allow the people to recall elected officials.
10. Allow citizen-initiated referendums.

Canadians love a good debate - two weeks ago we were debating UI changes, now we are debating electoral reform!

At the centre of the debate are two recommendations:

- *a limit of $1,000 on the amount that a third party can spend to support or oppose a person or a political party-and
- *no limit to advertising on election issues.

People who favour spending limits say that we must have rules in place to assure that a broad base of people can afford the funds needed to present their view fairly to the public for consideration. They insist that without spending limits public opinion can be "bought" by slick advertising.

People who are against spending limits say that any restriction inhibits "freedom of speech" and that such freedom is fundamentally important at election time.

The debate, like all good debates, has sound values on both sides.

The position the committee recommends is a compromise - it limits the spending to advertise for or against candidates and parties but sets no limit on spending to discuss issues.

formers want the people to control their government. Right now, it's the government that controls the people.

Let's look at what the "complex, workable" policies of Mrs. Sparrow and her Tories have gotten us: a debt growing five times faster than the economy, crime that's risen 130% since 1984 and the GST. If you want change, if you want a more democratic Canada, if you want reform, help send capital "R" Reformers to Ottawa in the 1993 election.

PERSONALITIES

Former Didsburian nominated for Juno

by Janice Harrington

A former local resident, well known for singing with her sisters at local church functions and weddings, has been nominated for a Juno.

Susan Graham, formerly Susan Luft, was nominated for the Canadian Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences' top award in the Country Female Vocalist of the Year category for her debut single "Take the keys to my heart". The song has been in the Top 10 nationally and the CD of the same name has garnered international attention, playing on country music stations all over Europe and the U.S.

The "Take the keys to my heart" CD is Graham's first recording and came after a lucky phone call made by her husband Bruce.

He had been watching the Nashville Network when he saw a phone number flashed across the screen for the Tall Girl Records label and decided to call. While the number didn't actually lead to the record company, it did lead to the Tall Ladies clothing store where by chance the wife of veteran musician Charlie Lamb worked. She encouraged Bruce to send a demo of Susan's singing and that led to Susan's introduction to her producer, Bob Bullock.

"Bruce has always been 150 percent behind me," says Susan. "He is probably the backbone of everything. He has really encouraged me to go as far as I have."

The CD, which Susan recorded in Calgary's Soundwerkes Studios, carries 4 tracks. The second track, "Blue all over you" was released only 2 weeks ago and is also enjoying a fair share of air play.

But it hasn't just been Susan's husband who was led her to the edge of stardom. Susan's childhood on her family's dairy farm just west of Didsbury was always filled with music and singing.

"Mom had a choir at Westcott church which we (her 6 sisters and 1 brother) sang in," she said. "Mom always had us going to community halls and we had to sing for our candy bags at Christmas. There was always music around. But I regret that I never learned how to play an instrument. I was too interested in sports and horses. But now I plan on taking up piano."

Ironically, Susan wasn't very interested in country music either until she forced to listen to it while milking with her brother Robert.

"I used to be in there thinking up ways to sneak over and change the channel but he would always catch me," she said. "But then I got to listen to singers like Reba McEntire and Ricky Van Shelton and I couldn't believe how good it was. I entered a few contests after that and I won."

But while Robert may have been the impetus to Susan's foray into country music, he sadly never got to see the results. He was killed in a farm accident just before Susan was to leave for a singing contest in Nashville.

But despite the loss of her only brother, Susan has continued to work hard at kick starting her career. She has performed in clubs around the province, entered a number of contests and is now looking to attract a major record label deal.

Susan, who now lives in Fort McMurray and works as a hairdresser, leaves for the Juno awards with her husband later this month. She says she is excited and honored to have been nominated.

"I'm going to give everybody in Fort McMurray and Didsbury a wave. I don't think people realize how big a Juno nomination is, I didn't even. It's just like a Grammy in the U.S. Just getting a nomination is incredible especially when you consider the people I'm up against. They have some major labels behind them."

But win or lose, no one can argue that Susan is on her way up. She believes the nomination is just the start and is ready to put aside her hairdressing business once things take off. She already has plans to finish off her album with another 10 to 12

Didsburian nominated for rookie of the year

Derek Kletzel, a forward with the Acadia "Axemen", has been nominated for the Rookie of the Year award to be presented by United Parcel Service (UPS) during the Canadian Inter-University Athletic Union (CIAU) national championships to be held March 19-21, 1993 in Toronto.

Kletzel, 21, of Didsbury, Alberta, is a Physical Education major at Acadia. He has had an excellent rookie year with 18 goals and 21 assists for a total of 39 points in 26 games.

Also nominated are John Spoltore, 21, of Elmira, Ontario, a forward with the Wilfred Laurier "Golden Hawks" and Greg Gatto, 21, from Lethbridge, Alberta, a forward with the Lethbridge "Pronghorns".

The Rookie of the Year award will be given to an individual who is no more than 21 years old and who is playing his first year of university hockey. Potential recipients will be selected based on statistics and contribution to the team.

CIAU award nominees are selected by a committee of the Canadian University Hockey Coaches Association.

In addition to the Rookie of the Year award, UPS also presents The Most Sportsmanlike Player award which is given to the player who best exemplifies the qualities of sportsmanship and who plays by the rules. Performance and penalty minutes are key criteria for the judging committee.

Juno nomination

Former Didsburian Susan (Luft) Graham was recently nominated for a Juno Award. The country singer released a short album earlier this year and has found success with her single "Take the keys to my heart". She is hoping the nomination will help her attract a recording contract with a major label.

songs and has made a guest appearance on TNN's Nashville Now.

"Now we are just hoping for a record deal," she said. "Please ask everybody to keep their fingers crossed pray for me to get it."

Tea room hopes to draw crafty crowd

by Janice Harrington

A new tea room has opened in Didsbury with the hopes of attracting the arts and crafts type of crowd.

The Tempest Tea Room, owned by Pat McDonald, opened its doors last week in the revitalized Traub Hall on the College Green grounds. McDonald said she hopes to create an atmosphere for all types of artists to enjoy.

"There is a tremendously talented group of artists in the county," McDonald said. "I would really like someplace to show off their talents. I had hoped to do it before we opened but it was too ambitious for starters."

McDonald said she got her inspiration for the tea room from Okotoks' Ginger Tea Room. She and Agnes Haines, who has purchased Traub Hall and is in the process of opening it up as a bed and breakfast, hope to open up the basement of the hall as an artisan's consignment shop.

"We would like to do something like the Ginger Tea Room but something more reasonable and on a smaller scale," she said.

In the meantime, McDonald is busy keeping up with the tea and lunch crowd which has already been attracted to the Tempest Tea Room. She offers homemade lunches and desserts as well as a variety of teas and coffee.

"I'm hoping it has a really nice ambience here," she said. "We really don't have a place like this in Didsbury where you can go for a nice light lunch. We are trying to have a menu that's nutritious and heartsmart - you know, low sodium, low fat. We will try to meet different people's needs."

McDonald said the menu, composed of sandwiches, soups and desserts, may expand in the future, but she will take some time to see how the business goes before doing too much.

"This is a new venture, I've never operated a restaurant before, my husband and I just have our cattle operation," she said. "It's exciting but it's scary too. If things aren't quite right people might not come back, they won't give you a second chance. So I want to take things slow and hopefully avoid any of that."

The Tempest Tea Room is open Tuesday through Saturday from 10am to 4 pm.

Time for tea

Didsbury's newest tea room owner Pat McDonald offers a selection of afternoon delights as well as a homemade lunch menu. Her restaurant, the Tempest Tea Room, recently opened in the former college residence, Traub Hall.

Mount View Lodge news

by Annie Caush

Hi all - Just when we thought "Old Man Winter" had left we find he's back again! Maybe next week will be warmer - we hope so.

We hope our readers got as many lovely handmade Valentines as we did - and entertainment besides. Our visitors just before Valentine's Day included members of the Panda Play School who sang for us, a Grade 1 class who sang and handed out Valentines and a Grade 3 class who called in at noon one day and gave us each a Valentine. Thanks so much to the children and their teachers. Then on the Friday evening a group of young people came and left a box of homemade cards and a lovely Valentine cake. Thanks so much.

The February Birthday Party on Feb. 15 was hosted by Auxiliary members Esther Bewick and Phyllis Sande. The entertainment was old time music by some members of the Evergreen Band and then Phyllis and Esther with some helpers served us ice cream and Valentine cookies. Those celebrating February birthdays were Mrs. Weldman, Mrs. Williamson, Mr. Lenz, Mr. Luckham and Mr. Yewell. Thanks to those putting on the birthday party. It was a lovely afternoon for all of us on Family Day.

We're all looking forward to the Auxiliary Spring Tea on April 6 and some of us are making items for the craft table.

Our Lodge was saddened recently by the passing of a long-time resident, Mrs. Alma Gulbe. We extend our sincere sympathy to her family and many friends.

In hospital we have Mrs. Muriel Shanks. We hope to see you "home" real soon.

Olds still planning on swimming pool

by Elaine Wilson

After more than eight years of negotiations with the Provincial Government, the town of Olds, in conjunction with Olds College, are hammering out plans to initiate construction of an indoor swimming facility.

Deputy Mayor Glenn Elmer attended the grand opening of the Didsbury pool, reporting to council that Didsbury's new facility constitutes an admirable accomplishment Olds would love to emulate.

"Saturday night my wife and I attended the opening of the Didsbury pool," councillor Elmer said. "I'd like to congratulate Didsbury. They've got something to be proud of. It's a nice facility. But I was talking to a lady there and she said, 'It's too damn small. When those people from Olds come we won't have enough room!' So there you have it."

Mayor Bob Armstrong advised that the town is currently working with the provincial government and Olds College in a concerted effort to make the pool a reality.

"The town council and the Board of Governors of Olds College met last Thursday," Armstrong said. "We discussed annexation, town development and there was a great deal of discussion on the swimming pool. We won a few and lost a few. A letter [to Olds College] is being drafted. They were having a meeting that afternoon to bring the answers back on some of the questions our letter to them asked. We will be going to Edmonton on the 25th for a 4 o'clock meeting with the minister regarding the pool."

Mayor Bob Armstrong told MLA Roy Brassard, who attended Monday night's town council session on February 22, that Olds was eager to start work on their own pool.

"[Discussions on government funding for] the swimming pool go back to 1986. My neighbors to the south invited us to an opening already and it looks like we're kind of dead in the dirt."

MLA Roy Brassard responded, "I appreciate your persistence. I know you've been waiting a long time."

Town manager John Van Doesburg said he hoped a decision would be reached at the February 25 meeting in Edmonton.

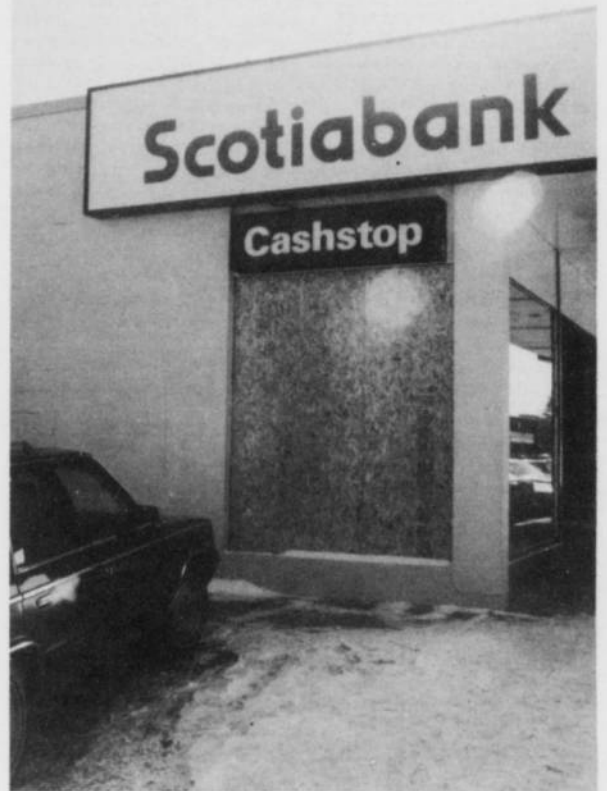

"[Representatives from] the town and the Olds College president will be meeting on Thursday with the Minister of Advanced Education and they will be discussing the pool; things the Alberta government can do in a partnership with us," Van Doesburg said. "We had a meeting last Thursday with the [Olds College] Board of Governors, they're very positive. We had an excellent meeting on the role of how we'd operate a pool if it got into place, who'd do what. We got all the infrastructure at our end done. So now we'll sit down with the Minister of Advanced Education and see where we go. Everybody would love it if the government paid for the pool and did all the operation but I think reality tells us differently. The second [scenario] is that it becomes more of a joint [effort]. The town and the council and the community as a whole builds the pool and we get operational money from both Advanced Education and the town. If we can get that kind of statement and a commitment from the College for capital funds then we can begin planning. We hope Thursday is a 'good news' day."

After 8 years of negotiations with the College and the Provincial Government, Van Doesburg said everyone is eager to see results.

"Council wanted an answer by September of this year, you know, where did the College stand? Whether they wanted to be in or whether they wanted to be out. We've been at a standstill since 1986. It's like the mayor says, it's not a yes, it's not a no, it's a maybe, and maybe just doesn't work. It's like the [pool committee] chairman Mr. Smith said: 'We've been dating for a long time. Now it's time to get engaged and get on with it.'"

Gum boot tournament another success

by Janice Harrington

Ball players from all over the province were out in their gum boots this weekend, helping to raise money for STARS.

The event was a unique tournament, held in Sundre, which helps keep bored ballplayers in shape over the snowy season and helps to keep the Shock Trauma Air Rescue Society (STARS) in the air.

It was the second time the tournament has been put on in Sundre, and organizer Bob Fahey called it a success.

"I'll tell you, walking downtown this morning you can sure tell who played in that tournament, they're all walking funny," he said. "It's not easy to play ball in gum boots in a foot of snow."

Fahey, who plays during the regular slo-pitch season for the Sundre Renegades, said 16 teams took part in the fun, all dressed in gum boots and crazy costumes. This year's award for the best costume went to the same team who walked away with the honors last year, Westward Ho's Dirty Mudders, who came dressed as doctors and nurses.

Winners of the tournament on the A side were the Village

Idiots from Westward Ho, on the B side, the team from James River and on the C side, Sundre's own Just us Macs.

Fahey said all the winning teams donated their earnings back to the organizers to put with all other earnings from the tournament and cabaret. More bills still need to be paid, but Fahey estimates approximately $4500 was raised for the air ambulance service.

"It was a fantastic time and the weather was fantastic, Fahey said. "We definitely plan to do it again next year."

Instant teller enclosures vandalized

by Elaine Wilson

Until their investigation is completed, RCMP won't be releasing details on suspects allegedly responsible for breaking a plate glass window and a glass door in two separate incidents at the Scotiabank instant teller site the weekend of February 12.

A spokesman for the RCMP said the window was broken when two men began "horsing around" and the wrestling match got out of control. The police consider instant tellers to be "high risk" items because of the after hour use.

"We attribute a lot of it to alcohol," said Corporal Dwayne Skappak, of the Olds RCMP detachment, saying that patrons of local drinking establishments often used the machines after they'd already had a few drinks.

The plate glass window on the north side of the building was broken Friday night and in an apparently unrelated incident, the glass door of the west entry way was kicked in the following night.

Robbery was apparently not a motive. No damage other than the broken glass was incurred. Regarding the damage to the door at the entrance to the instant teller, a bank employee said, "If there had been problems with the door, we'd have tried to fix it, but probably it was

Plans underway for Centennial Cup

by Elaine Wilson

The Centennial Cup, the 'Stanley Cup' of Junior A Tier Two Hockey, will be held in Olds during the last part of April 1994 through the first week of May.

Before agreeing to help out financially, the town of Olds worked out a deal with the Olds Grizzlies to clear up money owed to the town.

"The Grizzlies have an outstanding debt with the town and we're trying to get them to pay that debt off," said town manager John Van Doesburg. "It all ties in with the Centennial Cup because there's supposed to be a platinum [$50,000] sponsorship. The town hasn't got a lot of cash to give, like everybody else. I believe there's going to be 2 or 3 platinum [sponsors]; one is the Province of Alberta. Really the town will be the official ambassador. They have to have some start-up money. The town is going to give them $10,000 which will be repaid. We've looked at their books, we've talked at great lengths. I've had 5 or 6 meetings with them over this. They're pretty confident they'll make a reasonable profit from the Centennial Cup."

Councillor Donna Stauffer will be the town's representative. "One thing we will get [through hosting the Centennial Cup] is national recognition," Stauffer said.

Centennial Cup administrator Don Watkins said an event of this magnitude will take a lot of planning and co-operation from all parties involved. "It'll take a lot of hard work, but it will be a lot of fun. There will be 5 teams involved from all over Canada," Watkins explained. "It's a round robin playoff, 13 games. The arena holds 1820 people and we hope to be sold out before the event starts."

The Grizzlies will be involved regardless of their standings as they are the hosting team, but Watkins feels sure they'll be ready.

"We're planning to beat out B.C., so we won't have to worry," he said.

Racine facing more legal proceedings

by Janice Harrington

Vindication on a sexual assault charge by the Alberta Court of Appeal has not ended the legal woes for Carstairs resident Phil Racine.

Racine, co-owner of the Red Bull Pub and former vice-principal of Hugh Sutherland School is facing further legal proceedings after a civil suit was launched against him and the County of Mountain View School Board by Hugh Sutherland's former Preventative Program Coordinator Carmen Boulter.

Boulter, along with her husband Wayne Franklin of Cremona, launched the suit in late January seeking $145,000 in damages.

Boulter claims that while she was employed with the school,

Racine, as vice-principal, repeatedly touched and intimidated her and used "unwanted, unsolicited and offensive sexual overtones" in their conversations. She alleges that after complaining to the school board about his behaviour, her hours were cut in breach of her employment contract and then she was fired on August 31, 1991.

The $145,000 suit is to cover lost wages on behalf of Boulter and loss of consortium on behalf of her husband.

Neither the county or Racine would comment on the suit.

The lawsuit comes on the heels of Racine's acquittal of a charge of sexual assault which he had been convicted of in February 1992. It also comes during legal negotiations between Racine and the county over his employment contract.

Although Racine stopped working as vice-principal after the sexual assault charges had been laid, his employment contract had not been ended with the county. Neither party would make any further statement on the negotiations.

Auction hits fourth year

by Kathy Parsons

The Water Valley Community Association is once again hosting one of the most fun and unique fundraising events. The Annual Stud and Merchandise Auction at the Water Valley Restaurant and Saloon starts at 7:30pm on Friday, March 5th.

This is the fourth year for the fundraiser and each year it seems to get bigger and better. This year's line of stud services up for auction is impressive and includes an Appaloosa, a Trakehner, a quarter horse, an overo paint and a morgan thoroughbred.

While other miscellaneous merchandise has always been part of the auction, this year is the first year it has rated top billing along with the stud services.

"We've had tremendous support from the community and a few of the donated items for the auction include tack, western wear, art, hay, an autographed Flames stick, Flames tickets, a ski weekend for two and golfing passes," said Marlene Harvey who is organizing the event.

In addition and for a lot of fun, there is a stud of another sort. Harvey lists a mystery man for the ladies as part of the auction items!

Bidding should be fast and furious and all proceeds from the auction go to the Water Valley Community Association. It should prove to be a fun night whatever kind of stud you're willing to bid for.

Flea market to help spring recital

by Kathy Parsons

If you're looking for a bargain or treasure, check out the Dance and Drama Club Flea Market this Saturday at the Water Valley Community Hall from 10 am to 3 pm.

Organizer Annette Scott said there's only 1 of 20 tables left to rent and "I'm sure it will be rented before the weekend." The 20 tables will be chock full of hand knit sweaters, fresh farm eggs, health food, baby blankets, handicrafts, and fresh baked goods.

If you work up an appetite with all the shopping, there's a hot food concession with a tasty menu including hot dogs, beef on a bun and homemade soup.

This is the Dance and Drama Club's 4th Flea Market and all proceeds go towards the expense of putting on a spring recital.

"We'd like to make $400 after expenses," said Scott, "and that will help to cover the cost of costumes and gym rental for our May recital."

Getting Your House In Order
February 18 is the day to get started on your estate plan and the writing of your will. For those who take part in our program this is the end of procrastination!

Colin Simmons, agricultural lawyer from Calgary, talked to Three Hills participants about five priorities when developing an estate plan:

1. The parents should have financial security. This is the most important priority. Parents have worked hard all their lives and shouldn't sacrifice a comfortable retirement. A place to live is important as well. Giving away the title to the home quarter and the family home is not a wise idea if the parents are still planning to live there.

2. Family harmony is something to strive for. The fastest way to disrupt this harmony is to keep secrets in the estate planning process. It's important for families to talk about the estate plan. It starts with the parents talking to the children about what their intentions for the farm business are. Then the parents make decisions for the future of the farm business based on their own goals and feedback from their children. Then parents move on to communicate these decisions to their children. There should never be any surprises in the will. There is much less family strife if everything is done up front and honestly.

3. Transferring the farm to the next generation ranks third on the list. Here's the formula Colin Simmons suggests you keep in the back of your mind for organizing the transfer: "The money that you charge (what you need from the sale) plus tax equals what the kids can afford to pay."

4. Paying as little tax as possible is another priority. The advice of a good farm accountant is a wise idea. In most cases, tax can be avoided by wise planning.

5. The final priority is to do a lot of planning before you visit your lawyer and your accountant to make the best use of your time and money. It's also to have the best advice possible so be willing to pay for that advice.

Mr. Simmons' final words of advice were to TALK, TALK, TALK to each other as a family. This would solve most of the problems that he sees entering his office.

Many thanks to Ellen Frombach, District Home Economist for the Three Hills/

Drumheller area, for this informative article.

Free helmet kit puts a lid on head injuries

Bicycle collisions are a major cause of injury and death among Canadian children. That's why the Canadian Tire Child Protection Foundation, as part of its Cycle Safe Initiative, developed a free Bicycle Helmet Campaign Planning Kit. The kit is designed to aid police, schools, service clubs and community groups across Canada in promoting safe cycling and the use of helmets in their areas.

Three hardshell, Canadian-made, CSA-approved bicycle helmets are available in the kit along with a 20-page activity booklet, an educational video, a poster, paper measuring tapes and everything needed to run a successful bicycle safety event. And to make bicycle helmet use more attractive, accessible and affordable—the kit includes a special discounted price on large quantity helmet orders.

As Canada's leading retailer of bicycles and bike accessories, Canadian Tire believes it has a responsibility to promote bicycle safety in the communities it serves.

"Childhood injuries resulting from bicycle mishaps are a serious matter," says Jennifer Garland, Canadian Tire's Child Protection Foundation manager. "Through the efforts of community groups nationwide, we're hoping that more cyclists will be convinced to wear a bicycle helmet before they drive their bikes."

The kits are available in English and French. The activity books and video in the kit include safe cycling tips, information on how to properly size a bike and a helmet and on how to improve bicycle driving skills as well as the rules of the road. These materials are endorsed by the Canadian Cycling Association and the Canadian Injury Prevention Foundation.

A full information kit is available by writing to the Canadian Tire Child Protection Foundation, Box 770, Station K, Toronto, Ontario, M4P 2V8 or faxing Kerri Ann Colby at (416) 487-6524.

Through the Canadian Tire Child Protection Foundation, Canadian Tire Corporation, Limited and its Associate Dealers are providing support to charities devoted to the safety and welfare of children. Since the program launch in 1990, Canadian Tire has committed over $3-million to childhood injury prevention. Individuals within Canadian Tire Association Stores are working with local groups to host bicycle rodeos and promote bicycle safety across Canada.

Recreation views

Included in this week's issue of The Review is a copy of the Didsbury Aquatic Centre's program schedule. This schedule will remain in effect until June 30. Information on programs or admission rates is available by calling the aquatic centre at 335-8653.

With Spring but a short three weeks away, thoughts on outdoor sport programs such as soccer, softball and baseball begin to take front stage. Didsbury is of course no exception with dedicated volunteers heading these respective organizations. Information on Spring meetings and subsequent program registration will be available soon.

Prior to diving into outdoor Spring activities, March is traditionally wrap up month for winter sports. Locally the Senior Ramblers have qualified for post league play in the Chinook Senior Hockey League while the Didsbury Midget Ramblers will host the Provincial Midget "B" hockey tournament on March 12, 13 and 14. The Didsbury Figure Skating Club wraps up its season at month's end with Test Days while all minor hockey categories complete their season this month. High School basketball, both at the Junior and Senior levels, also wrap up play in March.

Following completion of the winter season of operation at the Memorial Complex Arena, the ice will be removed and pad cleaned in anticipation of the annual Chamber of Commerce Trade Fair which will be held on April 16, 17 and 18. Grant Hemming, spokesman for this year's event, is confident that it will be the best yet.

The Didsbury Aqua Jets swim club will hold a spring organizational meeting on Tuesday.

Pool report

The fun has begun! The Didsbury Aquatic Centre has opened to a splashing good start and response has been terrific. During opening week, swimming was offered from 3:30 to 9 pm every day and attendance reached up to as high as 300 on some of those days. Our regular schedule will be in effect as of March 1 and will be good until June 30. A new schedule for the pool will be made up every three to four months.

Lesson registration for our Beach Tot program and Red Cross lessons has started and we encourage all those interested to drop in to the pool to do so. Lessons will begin on March 15 and four different sessions will be offered before the end of June.

Aquacize classes will start on Monday, March 8. Pre-registration is encouraged. We are offering seven classes per week and we hope these will accommodate everyone's fitness needs. Morning classes will offer baby-sitting to make it easier for everyone to attend. Rates will be charged accordingly for this service or a baby-sitting co-op of those attending will be encouraged.

More news is yet to come. We have yet to really get rolling! If you have not been to the pool for a peak or a soak yet, we hope to see you there soon.

Registration frenzy

Telephones were ringing off the hook and the line up was long last Thursday when lesson registration began at the new indoor swimming pool. All levels of lessons as well as Aquacize classes are being offered to the community. Season passes for the pool are also selling like hotcakes.

Ramblers to battle Hobbema in playoffs

In an exciting and dramatic end to the Chinook Hockey League regular season, a combination of a Big Valley loss in Hobbema and the potent Rambler offence that scored so many goals during the season has led the hometown Didsbury Senior Rambler Hockey Club into a play-off spot.

With 3 teams finishing the regular season tied for the last play-off spot, the league had to rely on a complicated procedure that calculated total goals for and against versus goals against.

Had the league relied on a team versus team record, the Ramblers would have finished in 3rd spot by virtue of regular season play that had them defeating Big Valley 4 games to 2 tying Olds at 3 games each.

The Ramblers ended up in 4th place when the final tabulations were compiled and the Olds

Elks team finished in 3rd. Although they had the worst season record against the 3 deadlocked teams.

Calculation breakdowns showed the Elks with a .497 average followed by Didsbury with .476 and Big Valley the odd man out at .463.

The Ramblers have one of the most potent offences in the league which is evident with 4 scorers in the top ten in the league this year. This was fortunate as they also sported the unenviable distinction of having given up the most goals.

With the format decided, the Ramblers now face Hobbema Oilers in a best of five semi-final make-up that finds the team travelling to Hobbema on Monday and Wednesday for the first 2 games in the series. The Ramblers first home action is Thursday Mar. 4th with game time slated for 8:30 pm, followed by action at home again on Sunday March 7th, at 3:30 in the afternoon (if necessary).

This series promises to be exciting as the big and tough Oilers were a force this year and all games were close. The Ramblers outscored Hobbema 54-51 over 6 games but lost the season series 4 games to 2 with no less than 3 games being decided in overtime.

On a sadder note, the Ramblers travelled to Olds on Thursday Feb. 25 for a third and deciding game on their best of 3 matchup for B side provincial action. The Ramblers started out strong leading 1-0 after the first period but trailed the Elks 3-1 after 2 periods of play.

The strong Elks Hockey Club, led by their newcomer Gary Turnbull, managed to stretch their lead to 6-1 in the 3rd period before the Ramblers sprang to life with a flurry of 4 goals in 9 minutes to make things exciting with almost 2 minutes to play in the contest.

Down 6-5, the Ramblers opted to pull their goaltender in favor of an extra attacker and came close, only to have Captain Lars Olsen score into the open net for the Olds Team.

The Ramblers are somewhat disappointed this year as the loss now relegates them to the "C" side for the second straight year and the talent the team possessed should have allowed them to be a contender in "A" if not at least "B".

The Ramblers give full credit to the Olds team as they were worthy of their wins. The Ramblers wish them success in their next series, although secretly hoping to meet them again in final playoff action for league play should both be the winners of their respective match-ups.

The Ramblers were thrilled with the recent crowd at the last home game and hope that a strong contingent turn out for their playoff action against Hobbema club starting Thursday.

The team responds very well to a large and vocal crowd and the fans get treated to a more open and exciting brand of hockey which only has been the case of late.

The Rambler wind up and awards night will be announced in next weeks paper so watch the write up for more information.

Cremona minor hockey news

by Ryan Robertson

Bantam All-Star Game

Cremona, for the second straight year, hosted the Bantam All-Star game, and it once again proved to be a very positive aspect of the season.

The game, held on Valentine's Day, drew a large crowd. The West Division All-Stars eventually emerged victorious by a 6-5 count, but not without tremendous work by the eastern side who fought back from a 4-1 deficit. The game featured a shoot-out between the second and third periods comprising of the three top scorers of each division and the top three goalies of each division.

Before it was decided, three rounds were completed, and the west captured the honors. Appearing from Cremona as west division All-Stars were Jared Croft, Adam Newsome, Tony Myram and in goal, Jess Salinas.

The second goal of the game, a short-handed effort, was scored by Adam Newsome with the assist to Jared Croft. All Cremona All-Stars did a very effective job in the game. The fans were all entertained to a match in which all participants stuck to good hockey.

March 2. The club, which will commence operation this season after a two year absence, is eager to get underway in light of completion of the new aqua centre. Meeting start time is 7:30 p.m. at the pool.

The Red Deer Regional Planning Commission is in the process of completing details on a conceptual landscape design plan for that area encompassing the Memorial Complex. Included in the design is the aquatic centre sundeck and a parking plan. Once details have been confirmed, actual site work is expected to commence in early Spring.

Plans are now well underway for the relocation of the Recreation Board office. Presently located in Town Hall, the Board office will soon be situated in the Memorial Complex arena foyer in the area which is presently the facility supervisors office. Owen Clouston's new office will now be located on the arena mezzanine.

Sunny Side Up

There's a stir in the hearts of baseball fans,
Better than hot chicken soup,
Pro pitchers and catchers reporting to camp,
Means baseball fan spirits regroup.
The snow isn't gone and the ground is still hard,
But Dunedin and places like that,
Are sending out signals that winter's been bombed,
Shelled by incoming baseball and bat.
New teams, later on, who was traded to whom,
All those details and how players rate,
But THIS SECOND there's only one fact up at bat,
YO!! Spring training is up at the plate.
We who are affected when World Series dies,
Are equally shunted on track,
When time throws a strike against negative thoughts,
With the headline, SPRING TRAINING IS BACK.

THE COUNTY OF MOUNTAIN VIEW #17 APPLAUDS THE AGRICULTURAL SECTOR OF OUR SOCIETY

As the snows of winter begin to disappear giving advanced notice of the pending spring, we again sense the inner stirrings of our farmer friends, and indeed the whole agricultural sector, as they commence preparations for another growing season.

We pay special tribute to the ever optimistic farmer, the backbone of our County.

Regulatory Review recommendations implemented by CGC

Milt Wakefield, Chief Commissioner of the Canadian Grain Commission, announced that the Canadian Grain Commission has begun to implement the major recommendations pertaining to it which arose from the federal government's 1992 review of grains and oilseeds regulations.

Because many of the regulatory review recommendations, announced Nov. 13, had called for further study, Wakefield said the Commission has appointed Dennis Kennedy to co-ordinate their implementation, and has established five task forces to complete the required analysis, in consultation with members of the grain industry.

"Our objective is to work with producers and the trade to maintain Canada's excellent reputation for high quality grain," Wakefield said. "This includes involving all interested parties in implementing the regulatory review recommendations."

The five task forces are:

1. Services: This committee will develop a plan to reduce costs associated with grain inspection and inward weighing, as well as how to make certain inspection services optional.

2. Grain Quantity Issues: This committee will study the four recommendations related to audits and weighovers.

3. Grain Quality Issues: This committee will review the 11 recommendations dealing with quality standards and maintaining the integrity of grain transactions.

4. Regulatory Issues: This committee will review 14 recommendations related to licensing and security, tariffs, producer cars, negotiable documents, obligations of licensees, statistics, and importation of grain.

5. Commission Fees: This committee will develop a revised fee structure, in consultation with the grain industry.

Wakefield said that special efforts were being made to get the views and suggestions of Commission employees and clients (including foreign customers) concerning the most effective way of implementing the recommendations.

Hay trading service available

Alberta Pool has initiated a unique Hay Trading Service for Alberta hay buyers and sellers. The service is designed to bring together sellers and buyers of hay by using Alberta Pool's internal communication system and Farm Information Services (F.I.S.) Bulletin Board.

The idea for a hay trading service was generated by an Alberta Pool delegate and employee. The service can be initiated in two ways. A farmer can place his ad through an Alberta Pool elevator or farm supply centre manager or, if he subscribes to the F.I.S. system he can initiate the advertisement through it. Each ad will run for seven days from the time of placement. Each ad placed will be sent to 257 Alberta Pool elevators, farm supply centres, agro centres, and special business units and all 270 F.I.S. bulletin board users in Alberta and northeastern British Columbia.

The request from either a selling or buying position will outline the type, quality, amount in tonnes and the price of the hay being sold or requested for purchase.

The Hay Trading Service carries a charge of $25 per placement, G.S.T. included. It will provide an economical, fast and market focused clearing house for hay producers and cattle feeders. The service is available now. For more information, contact your local Alberta Pool manager.

New crops critical to farming future

Alberta farmers must keep pace with the rest of the world if they are going to survive, says Bob Graham, a long-time seed grower near Olds.

That's why plant breeding and crop development research is so important he says. "If we don't develop and adapt higher yielding, more efficient varieties we won't be able to compete in the world market place."

Crop development is an internationally competitive field, says Graham, who operates an 1,100 acre pedigree seed farm. Researchers in the major crop-producing regions of Europe, the United States and Australia, for example, are all working to produce improved crop varieties.

As these new varieties come along, farmers in those countries produce better quality and higher yielding crops. This could put Canadian farmers at a disadvantage.

"If someone else can produce it better and cheaper than we can, we won't be in business very long," says Graham.

Crop development research is carried on by a variety of players. Alberta Agriculture, Agriculture Canada, and the University of Alberta are some of the key publicly-funded plant breeding agencies in the province. Private companies and co-operatives such as the Alberta Wheat Pool and United Grain Growers are among corporations also working on new plant varieties.

"Because of the time required to breed new varieties, crop development work has to look a long ways down the road," says Graham.

It takes 10 to 12 years to bring a new variety on stream, says Doug Cooper, director of Alberta Agriculture's Field Crop Development Centre in Lacombe. The costs for this type of research and development often exceeds $1 million.

sistance, and days to maturity.

"The advantages in crop development and seed technology have been dramatic," says Graham. Twenty years ago, for example, central Alberta farmers couldn't grow wheat and field peas. The varieties available at that time matured too late, and had other characteristics not suitable for growing conditions.

"Now there are millions of acres of wheat and thousands of acres of peas throughout the region thanks to the development of new crop varieties," says Graham.

"If we don't maintain our plant breeding programs we're going to lose out," says Graham. "It's an expensive business, with high risks. In the future we'll probably see public and private plant breeders working together more to develop varieties to meet market demands."

We're There When You Need Us

Farming can be pretty unpredictable. Changing weather, new management practices and mystery weeds provide the challenges that make farming both exciting and frustrating. When you need answers or advice, you need it quickly.

And Alberta Pool is there to help. We have a wide range of products from Ultrabred seed to Westco fertilizer... and the advice to go along with it. We can help solve sulphur deficiencies in canola or wild oats in wheat. Our research and extension programs do not stop there either. We've implemented programs like Conservation 2000, a soil conservation awareness and research program, to help you keep farming now, and in the future.

So whether you want anhydrous ammonia at daybreak or advice on alfalfa at coffee-break, we have the products and services there when you need them.

"But it's been demonstrated time and again that the payback to the economy from new varieties is more than 30 times the cost of development," adds Cooper. "So we see an excellent return on investment."

Plant breeders today have to be working on varieties that will be needed 10 years from now says Graham. "If we don't keep constantly improving varieties we'll quickly fall behind."

While some research is geared to produce new crops, most effort goes into improving existing varieties of grains, oilseeds, pulses and specialty crops.

Breeding is geared not only to improve yield, but to improve traits such as disease resistance, straw strength, oil content, nutrient levels, cold weather hardiness, drought re-

The Seeds of Opportunity

Agriculture week provides an opportunity to salute Alberta's Agriculture industry. The industry has always been the cornerstone of the province's economy. While recent events have affected the industry's ability to prosper and grow, Alberta possesses the necessary "seeds of opportunity" to become a leading supplier of the world's food products, agricultural commodities, services and technologies.

Alberta's agricultural "seeds of opportunity" lie in the strength of our people, our superb agriculture resource base, our supportive research and technology transfer systems, and well-developed transportation, shipping, energy, health and education services.

Through the Creating Tomorrow process, a series of meetings were held across the province. Albertans were asked for their opinions and ideas about the direction that the agriculture and food industry should take. In an industry-wide, cooperative effort, Alberta's agriculture and food industry is turning those ideas into action plans - and building on our "seeds of opportunity."

Canada first to export bovine embryos to Japan

The Canadian livestock industry will be the first to export bovine embryos to Japan, thanks to the joint efforts of Agriculture Canada, External Affairs and the Canadian Embryo Exporters Association.

The Hon. Michael Wilson, Minister of Industry, Science and Technology and Minister for International Trade Canada, and Agriculture Minister Charles Mayer, announced Canada and Japan have signed the first ever quality certification protocol granting Canadian bovine embryos access to the profitable Japanese market.

Estimated sales of Canadian bovine embryos to Japan could surpass $1 million in 1993. Total bovine embryo export sales for 1991 were $2.6 million.

"This protocol offers Canadian producers an exciting opportunity to compete in the global marketplace and to highlight the world-class quality standards of the industry," Mayer said.

"This decision follows careful negotiations with both the industry and the Japanese government," Wilson said. "The Japanese market offers excellent trade opportunities for our agri-food industry. Last year's agri-food sales are estimated at $1.5 billion, accounting for 20 per cent of Canada's exports to Japan. We look forward to further trade initiatives in the future."

The Canadian Embryo Exporters Association has been designated and approved by the Japanese government as the agency for ensuring the embryos meet genetic quality standards. Agriculture Canada is responsible for ensuring the embryos comply with the health conditions prescribed by the Japanese Ministry of Agriculture, Forestry and Fisheries.

Electrifying story

This gruesome character was invented to help show school kids just how dangerous electricity can be. A video showing ElectroJuice is available for schools.

ElectroJuice warns teens about electricity

TransAlta Utilities is sending an outrageous and diabolical character into junior and senior high schools in its service area to educate teenagers about the dangers of electricity.

The character is ElectroJuice and he stars in a 28-minute video that focuses on electrical safety in an entertaining and informative way. Copies of the video and related teaching aids are being distributed to science teachers by TransAlta.

"ElectroJuice is a rather gruesome figure who dramatizes various electrical hazards and corresponding safety messages while taunting a teenager who has received a severe electrical shock while working on a summer construction job," says Mike Jackson, TransAlta's Manager of Occupational Health & Safety and Trades Training.

The award-winning video - produced by B.C. Hydro - is aimed at teenagers entering the workforce who will encounter increased exposure to on-the-job electrical hazards.

Jackson says an important aspect of the video, in addition to it being entertaining, is that students are remembering the content. In focus tests of the program, Grade 10 students said it was the "best video we've seen in school", "fun to watch...made me think" and "not like boring safety films."

"Our goal is to have as many teenagers as possible see this video and learn more about the dangers of working around electricity," adds Jackson.

TransAlta Utilities Corporation, the largest investor-owned electric utility in Canada, supplies more than two-thirds of all electricity used by utility customers in the province.

CMHC forecasts 177,000 starts this year

Total national housing starts are forecast to rise by 5.2 per cent to 177,000 units this year and to increase further to 193,000 units in 1994, reported Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation in its first quarter National Housing Outlook, released recently.

"A genuine, though gradual, economic recovery and improved consumer confidence will be the added ingredients to the current combination of low mortgage rates and strong immigration, that will give housing an extra boost this year and next," explained Gilles Proulx, Chief Economist of CMHC's Market Analysis Centre.

"The 1993 rise in activity will reflect diverging trends: stronger single unit starts but lower multiple unit starts. Rental starts will fall because of high apartment vacancies while condominium starts will remain low due to the still high volume of unoccupied units," added Proulx.

Resale prices are anticipated to rise with the average price up 3.4 per cent this year and 5.1 per cent in 1994 as a result of real appreciations and a transaction base less concentrated on first-time buyers. Provincial average increases will run the gamut this year, from slight declines in Ontario and P.E.I. to an increase of almost 8 per cent in British Columbia.

Mortgage credit growth up 3 percent

Residential mortgage credit grew 3.0 percent to $276.3 billion during the fourth quarter of 1992, according to a report released last week by Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation (CMHC). This brings the total increase for 1992 to 9.9 percent.

The fourth quarter figure, which is the strongest since the middle of 1990, compares to an average increase of 2.2 percent recorded during the first three quarters of 1992.

The January issue of CMHC's Mortgage Market Trends reports that mortgage credit is forecast to grow by around 11 percent this year.

"A stronger economic recovery and fairly stable mortgage interest rates will lead to somewhat stronger housing markets," said Marc Pellerin, CMHC's Capital Markets Economist. However, the rate of expansion will remain well below the growth of 17-18 percent recorded during the 1987-1989 period.

The moderate increase in mortgage credit will be the result of sluggish growth in both the new and the resale markets along with listless house price appreciations. According to Pellerin, "The new market in 1993 will reflect diverging trends for single and multiple unit starts. Single unit starts are expected to increase by 14 percent while starts of multiple units will drop by about 5 percent due to lower starts of rental units."

In the January issue, representatives of four of Canada's major lenders were invited to express their views on the outlook for the mortgage market in 1993. The consensus view is for a moderate expansion of mortgage credit concentrated in single housing units. Job uncertainty and high debt levels will prevent the housing market from booming in spite of relatively low interest rates.

Improving housing affordability through a longer amortization period is discussed in another article. The use of RRSP funds and 95 percent mortgages has helped those having problems saving for a downpayment. For those who find large monthly payments a problem, longer amortization periods might help.

CMHC accepts amortization periods up to 40 years. Higher total payments resulting from a longer amortization period could be offset if mortgagors choose, as is often the case, to pay off their mortgage loan faster as household incomes improve.

Issues of NHA Mortgage-Backed Securities (MBS) surpassed the $2 billion mark for the first time during the fourth quarter of 1992. Lenders took advantage of the NHA MBS program to offer refinancing facilities. One lender lowered the cost of refinancing for mortgagors wanting to lock-in their mortgage loan for five years when rates for this term were at 8.50 percent.

This issue also features a comparative review of Canadian and U.S. Mortgage-Backed Securities.

Lonely are our hearts today, For the one we loved so dearly, Has been forever called away. We mourn for her in silence, No eyes may see us weep, But many a silent tear is shed, When others are asleep." Ever loved and sadly missed by William, Pauline, Ellen, Billy & Grandchildren. 44-1tp

The day they called Edmonton's militia out against Ottawa

Hundreds of armed citizens were ready to fight it out with the Mounties over an order to move an office.

Envision 150 defiant riflemen arrayed around a wooden building besieged by red-coated North West Mounted Police. The locale: Edmonton in 1892. The band of outlaws: a militia unit acting on the orders of the town's mayor. The stuff of fiction? Not quite. A century ago, the city of Edmonton declared a very real war on the federal government.

Old Edmonton's citizens were tired of watching their city become a ghost town. The Canadian Pacific Railway, originally surveyed to pass through the town, had bypassed Edmonton in favor of Calgary. The fur trade which had made Edmonton great was declining. The town on the opposite side of the North Saskatchewan, later to be known as Strathcona but still called "New Edmonton" in 1892, was flourishing. A great deal of latent anger, much of it directed at Ottawa, simmered beneath the surface in the community.

On June 18 of that year the federal government announced that it was moving the local Land Titles Office south of the river to a more accessible location in New Edmonton. This was intolerable to Edmontonians, for whom the office was a source of civic prestige. When workmen arrived that afternoon to dismantle the office for removal, a crowd gathered around them. Then someone pulled a fire alarm and in minutes hundreds more men were on the scene. Mayor Matt McCauley energized the mob with a rabble-rousing speech and before long they had taken the wheels from the workmen's wagon and hidden their horses.

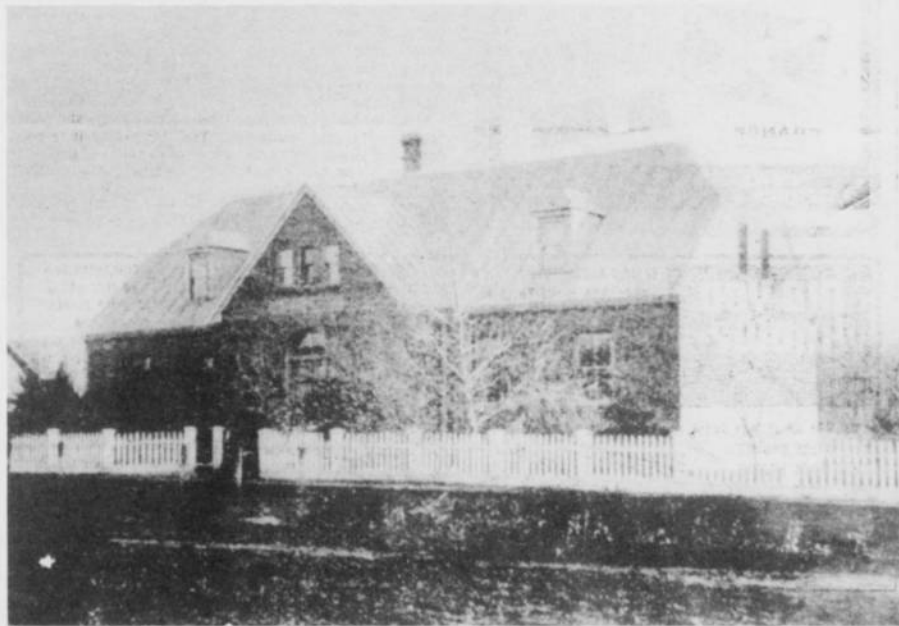

"Timber Tom" Anderson, the Dominion land agent, was determined to carry out his duty.

He tried to bring more horses and wagons across the river from New Edmonton, but the crowd stopped them at the ferry landing. Meanwhile, McCauley was complaining to Ottawa that Anderson was injuring Edmonton for his own profit - he owned part of the New Edmonton property to which the office was to move. As night fell, the Mounties kept watch over the wheel-less wagon while the mob burned Timber Tom in effigy.

The next day was a quiet Sunday. On Monday NWMP superintendent A.H. Griesbach arrived at the outskirts of the city with 20 Mounties. Fearful of a popular uprising, he left the Mounties huddled on the edge of town and went in to the town office to speak with officials. He found they had summoned the Edmonton Home Guard, a militia unit originally formed during the Riel Rebellion of 1885. 40 men were posted outside the land office, each with a rifle and plenty of ammunition. The situation was more dangerous than ever.

All at once the surprising news emerged that it was federal Interior Minister Edgar Dewdney, and not Timber Tom Anderson, who had arranged the removal of the land office. And Dewdney was not happy. He informed Mayor McCauley that the NWMP had orders "to effect removal" of the building at once. Every able-bodied man in the city rushed to the perimeter of the land office. Superintendent Griesbach had to assure town officials that he had no instructions and would not act until he did. The next day violence almost broke out when a rainstorm started and Mounties began to take the workmen's supplies inside the land office to keep them dry.

Ottawa finally backed down to avert open war. The memory of Riel's Rebellion and its appalling consequences were still fresh in their minds. Interior Minister Dewdney assured Edmontonians that the land office would stay in Old Edmonton, with a boxcar acting as a sub-office south of the river. The stubborn men of Edmonton had scored a victory.

Barley/Canola Seminar

Barley and canola are the heart of crop production in the county of Mountain View. The last census reported that there were 221,697 acres of barley and 57,675 acres of canola grown in the county. This is out of a total of 523,507 acres of cropped land in the county.

On March 11 we will be holding a Barley/Canola Seminar at Olds College to look at the results of the barley/canola survey that many of our producers took part in. This was a provincial wide survey on barley and canola production.

Phil Thomas and Murray McLellan of Alberta Agriculture's Field Crops Development Centre in Lacombe will be on hand to present the results of this study. There will be lots of time for questions so this is the chance to get yours answered.

Calvin Ausehus of Chinook Grain will give a market outlook and strategy for '93. Ted Darling, Regional economist with Alberta Agriculture will talk about GRIP and its implications for '93.

This is your chance for that final tune up before spring field work starts.

There is no registration fee but we ask that you pre-register at 556-4220.

Facts about firewood

A log fire blazing on a cold day is very welcome. However, any old logs will not necessarily produce a good flame, so it pays to know which wood to buy or pick up.

Larch is dangerous, as the sparks can travel a surprisingly long way. Pine is another which "sparks," so if you do use these woods, have a fine mesh guard and be sure that the fire is not left unattended while it burns. Both of these woods make good kindling to start a fire, though.

Scented

Many trees give out a pleasant scent when burned. Apple, plum and pear are particularly scented.

For warmth, yew logs will throw off heat and last a long time; they also can be relied upon to burn well.

Ash and beech are two more that always burn — either "green" or dry — and they have the added bonus of giving off little smoke.

Birch burns away quickly and oak should be kept for awhile after it's been cut, in order to get the best out of it.

Driftwood must be dried out well — and even then may only smolder, but be sure there is no tar or oil on it.

Avoid, if you can, elm, chestnut and willow, which burn slowly and not very well.

Acrid

Country lore says that to burn poplar logs will bring bad luck. Elder burns well, but many do not like the bad smell it gives off.

Holly produces glowing embers but catches quickly, so only use a little at a time, or the chimney may catch on fire.

The ash left from logs is good for the garden, so enjoy your logs and benefit from them, too.

Remember, there should always be an adult helping you whenever you are building a fire. Be very careful with any size fire. K3920004

SOLUTIONS

An unusual tradition

One of the strangest rituals of courtship used to take place on the island of Tristan da Cunha.

The traditional way for a young man to show his intentions was nerve-racking for the girl of his choice.

Once he had picked his future wife, convention demanded that every night for a month he had to visit her parent's house. It had to be every night, too — no slipping away for an evening with his friends. If he missed even one visit, the romance was over.

The girl would spend each evening knitting a special pullover with a pattern of circles, knitted according to Tristan custom. Once the month was over, she said "Yes" by giving it to the man of her choice, and then the engagement was officially announced.

In the past, this process could take up to 10 years.
